

Memorial Service.

The annual Memorial Service in honor of the men of Didsbury and district who died in the Great War, was held at the monument on the Butte last Sunday afternoon.

There was a good representation of veterans in attendance, joined by returned men from Crossfield, Carstairs and Olds. The parade, which included Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs, Rangers, Guides and Brownies, was headed by the Didsbury Band.

Wreaths and flowers were placed on the memorial by J. D. Thomas, president of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, and Mrs. C. R. Ford, regent of the local chapter of the I.O.D.E. Flowers were placed by representatives of the Scouts, Cubs and their sister-organizations the Girl Guides, Rangers and Brownies, also by a number of friends.

The 2-minutes' silence was observed and the "Last Post" and "Reveille" were sounded by Dr. H. C. Liesemer.

Rev. Major W. T. H. Cripps, of Red Deer, conducted the service and gave the memorial address.

First New Wheat Received on Tuesday

Ed. Buhr, of the Bawlf Elevator, reported on Tuesday that he had purchased the first load of new wheat to be delivered in Didsbury this season.

The wheat, which was a splendid sample of 222 Red Bobs, graded No. 1 Northern and weighed 60 per bushel, was grown by S. Bouck who lives 16 miles east of Didsbury.

Mr. Bouck says that both yield and quality are better than he anticipated.

Banff-Jasper Road Will Open In June

According to a statement issued by C. M. Walker, supervising engineer of the Canadian department of mines and resources, the Banff Jasper highway will not be open for through traffic until next June.

The report stated that no exception would be made to this rule. He adds that it would be impossible for the modern, low-slung cars to traverse the unfinished section of the road as they have not enough clearance. At present the crews working on this section of the road are using old model trucks with high clearance. No cars have yet traveled the section.

Olds Hockey Team Now Certain

Five members of the local hockey executive made a trip to Edmonton on Sunday and made definite arrangements for the Olds entry in the Alberta Senior Hockey League for next winter.

Frank Coulson who handled the team here for part of last winter, will again take care of the coaching duties. Eleven players have been signed by him, leaving only two to complete the roster.

The set-up for next winter will be: the team, coach, and manager, assisted by a local finance committee, will handle everything. All receipts of any kind will be handed over to this body, and losses etc. will also be taken care of by them. This idea was put before the local executive and was accepted by them.

We understand Mr. Hans Hanson will again handle the duties of manager after an absence of one year from the post.

The team is to be made up of thirteen players, none of whom are over the age of 22 years, and ten of them played junior hockey in Edmonton last winter — Olds Gazette.

Knox United Church Notes

At all points on the United Church charge on Sunday next, the minister will discuss "The Message of the Gospel for Industry."

The Church School will meet at 11 a. m. and all children who belong are urged to begin the new term promptly, and children who are not attending any other School are invited to come to the Knox United.

A hearty welcome awaits all who will join with us in worship, praise and study of God's word.

Labor Day.

Monday, September 4th, being Labor Day, all business houses will be closed that day and will be open all day Wednesday, September 6th.

Good Fishing Reported.

With the fishing season having two weeks to go, local fishermen are reporting splendid catches. They report that there are lots of Loch Leven trout in the Raven and that some have attained a good size.

Last week Charlie Mortimer and Tom Johnson had a two or three days' fishing trip and reported a catch of 54 good trout.

On Friday Russell Ady and Ed Ford spent the day on the Raven and Ed brought in the largest Loch Leven trout known to be taken from that stream. It was 24 inches long and weighed over 4 lbs. Each had five good trout to bring home.

On Sunday Jim McGhee and Ed Ford had a good day's fishing and brought in 19 good ones.

Flames Destroy Sundre Sawmill

Crackling forest fires swept by high winds this morning completely destroyed the Ferguson Bros sawmill in the Bow River forest reserve 12 miles west of Sundre, where fires have raged for nearly three weeks.

All machinery and supplies of lumber at the mill were destroyed by the flames. The mill will not be rebuilt for some time as the timber stands in the district which served it has been almost completely wiped out. No estimate of the damage has been made.

Family Reunion At Vancouver

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Stauffer, accompanied by two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Stewart of Edmonton and Mrs. Lela Moorhouse of Ponoka, recently returned from Seattle and Vancouver where they went to meet Mrs. Stauffer's daughter, Mrs. B. H. English and her husband and their children Helen, Louise and Bobby. Mr. English is divisional manager of the Pan American Airways and is stationed at Manila. They flew from Manila by "Clipper" to San Francisco and made a motor tour across the United States and Canada before returning to Vancouver.

While in Vancouver a family reunion was held at Stanley Park at which were present Mrs. Stauffer's other daughters who reside at the coast: Mrs. C. J. Lee and Mrs. Alvin Nelson of Seattle; Mrs. P. J. Barnes of New Westminster; Mrs. H. V. Richardson and Mrs. Thomas Cole of Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. English later left to visit the World's Fair at San Francisco and will fly back by the "Clipper" to their home in Manila.

School Will Open Next Tuesday

The Didsbury Schools will open for the school term on Tuesday morning with two new teachers on the staff.

In the High School Mr. A. Reiber has been promoted to principal and Miss Armstrong has been transferred from the Public School. Miss Bea Kendrick and Miss Collins, the latter of Pincher Creek, have been added to the Public School staff.

Ship Mules from Didsbury.

It sounds like shipping coals to Newcastle, but a carload of mules were shipped from Didsbury last Thursday, destined for the cotton fields of Tennessee.

Mr. Len Oveatte of Shenandoah, Iowa, purchased 26 mules from Mrs. Georgie Smith and Joe Fulkert, each having half the carload. This is the first carload of mules ever shipped from Didsbury. They were freighted to Iowa and later will be sent south.

"Buster," the Seal Takes Another Holiday.

The search for "Buster," Calgary's holidaying seal, continued Tuesday in the irrigation ditch northeast of Chestermere lake, after his disappearance from the lake, where he spent the weekend fishing, following his escape Saturday night from the zoo on St. George's Island. Ditchriders and C.P.R. officials in the area were watching for the seal, but had not seen him.

This is Buster's second bid for freedom, as early in July he escaped from the polar bear cage and went on a prolonged "bust" up the Bow, all the way to Bassano.

WEDDINGS

BLACK—McDONALD

A pretty and interesting wedding took place in Calgary last Thursday morning, August 24, when Jeanne Frances, daughter of Mrs. and the late Mr. Frank McDonald, of Didsbury, became the bride of Mr. Alexander John Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Alexander Black, of Olds.

Miss Mary C. Black of Olds, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, and Mr. W. D. Black of Olds, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The ceremony, which was witnessed by immediate relatives, was performed by the Rev. Dr. R. H. MacKinnon at his residence, 1338, Eighth avenue east, Calgary.

After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Black will reside at Olds — Calgary Herald.

Prairie Chicken May Be Shot This Season

Alberta nimrods may add prairie chicken and ruffed grouse to their hunting bag during the coming season. Provincial Game Commissioner W. H. Wallace announced in Edmonton that sharp tailed grouse, commonly known as "prairie chicken" and ruffed grouse may be shot in the territory north of the Clearwater and Athabaska Rivers from 12 o'clock noon, October 2, until October 31. South of the Clearwater and Athabaska, the season is shorter by two weeks, opening October 2 and terminating October 14.

Hungarian partridge may be shot south of the North Saskatchewan river from October 2 to November 30 inclusive. The bag limit is 150 birds for the season.

Canadian Wheat Board Regulations.

In this issue we are printing an advertisement of the Canadian Wheat Board respecting the 5,000 bushel limit on deliveries to the Board. Every farmer and land owner should read these instructions carefully so that all risks of offending the Act will be avoided.

It will be noted that every person who sells wheat to the board in excess of 5,000 bushels and in breach of the regulations set out in the advertisement is guilty of an offence and punishable on summary conviction by fine or imprisonment. It is the earnest hope of the Wheat Board that wide publication and understanding of these regulations will prevent any infringement of the law and that all producers will co-operate to this end. The Board will have inspectors checking deliveries at the elevators and farms to assist in the administration of the Act.

Any farmer or other person entitled under the Act to wheat grown on a farm who is in doubt regarding his position is invited to write to the Board submitting full details regarding his case.

Honoring The Dead

In the minds of some people cemeteries may be regarded as a somewhat gruesome topic to write about or talk about, but it should not be and there is no reason why burial grounds should be allowed to present an appearance that naturally lends an atmosphere of gruesomeness to any thought or discussion of them.

Unfortunately as one travels up and down the length and breadth of the country, far too often there breaks upon the view of the passerby the vision of a cemetery in a condition that would not be tolerated were it the site of the abode of the living.

One sees, perhaps on a bleak, wind-raked hillside an unkempt piece of ground matted with weeds and dotted with leaning, cracked, stained and weathered headstones of wood, stone or marble inscribed with loving testimonials whose words are belied by the surrounding pitiable scene of neglect and disorder.

Or maybe, the home of the dead is located in a low lying spot of wasteland. Perhaps "God's acre" is surrounded by a fence of rotting posts which act as a poor support to a few strands of trailing and broken wires. Here and there is to be seen a miserable and unwashed apology of a tree, wilt-mixture of straggling weeds and struggling flowering plants, or cut flowers which have long since given up the ghost.

Sad pictures are these and a sore blot on the landscape. Fortunately, they do not represent the great majority of the burial grounds in the prairie provinces, but there are still too many of them and they are not altogether confined to the rural districts. There are cemeteries to be found in the towns and even in some of the cities which are not a credit to the communities which suffer them.

Some Beauty Spots

On the contrary, there are to be found in many of the towns and villages and along the country roads, burial grounds which are a delight to the beholder and which diffuse that atmosphere of beauty, peace and rest which properly belongs to the purpose for which such areas have been set aside and dedicated.

Where the grounds for the interment of the departed are well laid out and well maintained, it will usually be found that either they are privately owned or, if a municipal enterprise, they have been placed under the charge of a committee of citizens who have sufficient respect for their duties and pride in their responsibilities to make of them a sacred trust and undertaking.

And where the best results have been achieved it will usually be found that custodianship has been vested in a committee, not of the local council, but of citizens representative of a number of community organizations—men and women who are conscientious, who can somehow spare time to devote to the work and who can and do take a genuine and even a zealous interest in the undertaking.

Some of the most beautiful cemeteries in the country are entirely the result of voluntary community effort directed by committees of the type mentioned. The work is not done in a haphazard or spasmodic manner. Rather it is a labor of love. Members of the committee in charge make frequent visits to the hallowed burial ground and when there is work to be done, whether it be new plantings, repairs or simple maintenance, a working bee is organized and the work is done without fuss or feathers.

Expenditure Unnecessary

Climatic and financial conditions, of course, make it impossible to reproduce in rural Western Canada cemeteries such as the famous one in Los Angeles where large sums of money have been spent on buildings, sculptures, lighting effects and music in a setting of unparalleled beauty, but the underlying spirit which inspired the sponsors of this beautiful cemetery can be emulated and used to reproduce a similar atmosphere and effect on a moderate scale.

When it is remembered that a hallowed and beautiful last resting place for the loved ones who have gone before can be provided without much expenditure for materials, there seems to be little reason why every cemetery in the west should not be creditable to the community in which it is situated, since there is always plenty of volunteer labor available at periodic intervals even in the smallest community.

It is largely a matter of the proper attitude of respect towards the dead and for the feelings of the relatives, a praiseworthy community spirit and the will to do. Given these things much can be done with little or no cash outlay.

Scientists Claim Soy Bean Is Greatest Protective Food

Nutrition experts at the Pacific Science Congress in Berkeley, Calif., described the soy bean as one of the greatest potential protectors of the poor against hazards of unbalanced diets and vitamin deficiency.

Dr. A. A. Horvath of the University of Delaware asserted processed whole soya flour "should to-day be placed at the head of the list of protective foods of high nutritional value, available to the masses at low cost."

He said the soy bean contained 40 per cent. of high grade protein, 20 per cent. oil, two to three per cent. of phosphate substances, a liberal supply of calcium, iron, copper and vitamins B-1, B-2 and K.

Royal Visit Demonstrated Essential Spirit Of Unity Existing All Over Canada

The visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to North America has been accounted a tremendous success for many reasons and in Canada it is hailed with enthusiasm as a unifying force in the Dominion.

Their Majesties stopped at more than 60 cities and towns, including the capital city of each of the nine provinces, and the effect was to maintain everywhere uninterrupted interest in the tour that lasted a month.

Commenting on the visit, Premier Thane Campbell of Prince Edward Island said: "Canada's unity should receive a great stimulus from the fact that every province has shared in the reception of our common King and Queen." Premier John Bracken of Manitoba said: "Nothing in our history has so absorbed and unified the nation's thinking as the visit of our King and Queen."

"The visit has demonstrated that, despite sectional differences, there is an essential spirit of unity existent throughout the entire Dominion and that Canada has proceeded much farther along the road toward nationhood than most of us had appreciated," said Premier W. J. Patterson of Saskatchewan.

Only in the future will the full effect of the 9,000-mile journey across Canada and into the United States be weighed and assessed, but the outstanding fact now is that the King and Queen were given a heartfelt welcome in every sector they visited.

Commenting on this editorially, the London (Ontario) Free Press said: "Under the magic of the royal presence evil humor has, for the time being at least, disappeared from the body politic; the remedy may not be complete or lasting, but there is still magic in the King's touch."

Discussing His Majesty's hope, as expressed early in the tour at Ottawa, that the visit would give Canadians a deeper conception of their unity as a nation, the Edmonton (Alberta) Journal said the royal tour had accomplished wonders in preparing the way for a manifestation of the unity so greatly desired by the King. The Journal added: "What he has had to say in urging the need of this upon his Canadian subjects cannot sink too deeply into their minds."

The French language papers in Quebec province had many tributes for Their Majesties. "The King and Queen have given rise to a strong current of sympathy for themselves and their family," said the Quebec L'Evenement-Journal. "French Canadians will never forget them and the words of love they had for them."

As to the royal visit to Washington and New York where the King and Queen were given a tumultuous welcome, the Saint John (New Brunswick) Telegraph-Journal said it "promises to unleash forces that may well change the destiny of nations." The visit had "driven the dictators and their manufactured scares into the shadows," the Telegraph-Journal remarked. War news disappeared from the front pages and business was decidedly improved.

The Kingston (Ontario) Whig-Standard said humanity seemed to have been given a new hope by the Washington welcome. The Ottawa Journal looked for "things far greater than pacts and treaties, more lasting than promises and agreements."

Dictators of Europe had no doubt been listening and observing, remarked the Winnipeg Free Press which asked: "Do they sense the significance of the occasion and the common ideals and depth of feeling that drew the people of the British Commonwealth and of the United States together?"

After four days in the United States, Their Majesties met renewed enthusiasm on their return to Canada. They entered French-speaking Quebec province the second time and then the provinces of New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

Canada's farewell was a memorable event. The King and Queen sailed from Halifax on the liner Empress of Britain. Their Majesties spent one impressive day in Newfoundland, the Empire's oldest colony.

Except for nine nights as guests at scattered points, the King and Queen slept aboard the luxurious royal train. They did not appear more than slightly tired at any stage of the tour.

Their interest in new sights and new faces never wavered. As the Empress put out to sea from Halifax they made three appearances on the bridge to answer insistent cries. They could look back on a tour that was an unqualified success. Canadian Press.

Long-Winded Politicians

British Humorist Has Something To Say About Loquaciousness

The tendency toward use of involved language by politicians is bothering A. P. Herbert, humorist and independent member of parliament for Oxford University.

In a letter to the London Times he said this corruption is also creeping into the defence services and if Lord Nelson were alive now he never would say, "England expects every man to do his duty."

The admiral's statement, Mr. Herbert said, probably would run something like this:

"England anticipates that as regards the current emergency personnel will face up to the issues and exercise appropriately the functions allocated to their respective occupation groups."

Anti-Aircraft Defence

Unlikely That Air Raiders Will Be Able To Wipe Out Large Cities

General T. Weiss, who holds a key post in France's air ministry, considers it unlikely that wartime air raiders would be able to wipe out great cities.

"The idea that cities like Paris and London might be wiped out from the air," General Weiss said, "is built on false impressions. A great deal of damage could be done, but it would not reach anything like such disastrous proportions."

He pointed out that anti-aircraft defence had reached a high state of perfection, that fighting planes would rise to battle aerial invaders and that special provisions have been made to combat the effect of incendiary bombs.

Story About A Horse

One Hard To Believe But True Just The Same

C.P.R. Detroit-Toronto flyer was two minutes behind schedule and the driver in the engine had opened up for a speed of 70 miles an hour, and that was the admitted rate at which the train was going when Thomas Clements, a man of 92 years, was driving his horse and buggy toward a level crossing. Mr. Clements was not present at the inquest where these matters were related because he is dead and buried. But the engineer of the train was on hand.

That in a general way was the situation, comments the Peterborough Examiner. The train going 70 miles an hour struck the buggy in the centre, carrying the driver a measured distance of 222 feet, and injured him so seriously that he was dead when picked up.

After attention had been paid to the man of 92 in the buggy a search was started for the horse, the belief being that it would be found some place along the track. It is here that the almost unbelievable feature enters the horse had been cut clear by the impact of the engine, after which it wandered to a nearby field and when found was munching away at some pasture!

The Duke Of Kent

Has Become Important Factor In Commonwealth's Official Life. Atticus, writing in the Financial Post, says:

The position of the Duke of Kent has taken on an entirely new phase since he was appointed to be Governor-General of Australia. Instead of merely performing the incessant social duties that are inevitable for a man in his position, he now becomes an important factor in the official life of the Commonwealth. While he will not interfere in the political struggles of Australia, he will be in constant touch with his Ministers and cannot help but influence them in their point of view toward Imperial and world affairs.

What is more he will speak frequently in public, when he will find his Australian audiences kindly but appraising. Therefore it is heartening to note that the Duke of Kent is improving rapidly as a speaker. For one thing, at the Independence Day dinner he thrust the microphone away from him, which is the beginning of wisdom. Nothing ever invented has done so much to repress individuality. The texture of the voice and the very essence of personality are lost in the mechanical amplification of sound.

An even better sign was the adaptation of his speech to the occasion. A newspaper tried to secure a copy of the Duke's speech after the dinner but was told that the speech had been altered so much during the dinner that the manuscript was useless. It was worthy of a public man of far greater experience when he picked up the American Ambassador's phrase about Anglo-American friendship being taken for granted and said:

"It proves beyond a shadow of doubt that the ideal of peace can be achieved. It should enable every country to continue to work for peace, in the full knowledge that for one country to live in harmony with another is an established possibility. When I go to Australia in the autumn as Governor-General I shall most certainly bear that in mind. I hope I shall not have to put it in the forefront of all my thoughts and actions, because I agree with Mr. Kennedy that it should be a permanent background, a background so taken for granted that it is almost forgotten."

Secret Of Edison's Success

Famous Inventor Took Plenty Of Time For Experiments

No inventor was ever more patient or painstaking than Thomas A. Edison. He was always willing to repeat an experiment a thousand times, if necessary, to prove or disprove a single idea. Therein, without doubt, lay much of his success.

Once an assistant began making excuses for taking so much time on a certain job, "Don't apologize," said Edison. "Time comes as fast as it goes, and there is always plenty of it to do what should be done."

Gen. Ironside, Britain's Tallest Army Officer, Has Had Interesting Career

If Great Britain went to war the expeditionary force she probably would send to Europe would be commanded by General Sir Edmund Ironside, the 59-year-old giant the British War Office has named Inspector General of Overseas Forces.

Called "Tiny" by his friends, Ironside is the British army's tallest, heaviest officer. His broad shoulders and athletic legs give him a slightly top-heavy appearance. Tipping the scale at 252 pounds, he stands six feet four inches.

Twice relegated to posts normally regarded as dignified semi-retirement for distinguished soldiers no longer needed in active administrative jobs, Sir Edmund now is back in the front-line of Britain's military organization.

Recalled from the Governorship of Gibraltar which he assumed last October, he has plenty of scope for the organizing ability and broad experience that made him one of Britain's most noted military leaders.

He was appointed in 1931 to the post of Lieutenant of the Tower of London, now little more than a military museum after three years as commander of the British army district of Meerut, India. In 1933, he went back to India as Quartermaster-General of the British forces.

Sir Edmund didn't loaf in Gibraltar. During the tense international situation this spring, when reported concentrations of German and Italian troops in southern Spain and in Spanish Morocco were causing grave concern in Britain, he set his troops building barricades along Gibraltar's Spanish frontier.

Under his direction the British troops tunneled into the solid rock of Gibraltar to make deep air raid shelters for the entire population of this strategic British colony.

Sir Edmund's new job, one of six major army administrative changes announced May 31, ranks him next below Viscount Gort, 53-year-old General whom War Secretary Horne-Belisha named chief of the Imperial General Staff in December, 1937, following a spectacular army council shakeup.

Sir Edmund's present post, revived from 1914, would disappear if war came. He then would be Commander-in-Chief of Britain's field army.

Simultaneous with Ironside's appointment General Sir Walter Kuke, Adjutant General, was named Inspector General of home forces. The two appointments, the War Office announced, were designed to "forward the military preparedness of the army."

Strategic centre of the British army no longer is in the home country. The centre has shifted to the middle east. The approximately 20,000 troops Britain now has in Palestine are the basis of her Middle East reserve, recognized as a separate force that would call on Indian army contingents for emergency reinforcements.

In his new post Sir Edmund commands this vast area, is responsible for the war preparedness of Britain's scattered overseas forces.

"The most difficult military feat is to gauge the proper size for an expeditionary force," he once said. "Its numbers are always too small."

Son of a Scottish surgeon-major, of Ironside, Aberdeenshire, Sir Edmund entered the Royal Artillery when he was 19. He quickly got his first taste of war. The year he joined the army his artillery brigade was drafted for service in the South African War. Honors came quickly to the young lieutenant.

Always a keen student of languages, Sir Edmund's South African campaign gave him a detailed knowledge of South African Dutch. He found it of value in 1914 before the opening of the Great War.

Disguised as a Boer he attached himself to the German forces fighting the Hereros natives in Southwest Africa shortly before the war. The Germans, convinced by his word-perfect Dutch, put him in command of native convoys. Sir Edmund made extensive notes of German methods of colonial warfare. He sewed the notebooks into the lining of his tunic and brought them back to the War Office.

Holding Captain's rank when the Great War started, he was the first uniformed British officer to land in France. He went to Boulogne at the beginning of August, 1914, to organize rail transportation for the first units of the original British Expeditionary Force.

Promotion came quickly. He held staff jobs in various ranks until 1918, when he was appointed brigadier-general commanding the British 99th infantry brigade. Throughout the war and for 10 years afterwards he was Britain's youngest general.

For his World War service he was knighted by King George V. and received the British Distinguished Service Order. The French government made him an officer of the Legion of Honor and gave him the French War Cross with Palm. From Imperial Russia came the order of St. Vladimir, second class.

Before the war ended, Sir Edmund was in Archangel, commanding the allied forces in North Russia charged with the task of preventing the Germans from seizing allied war material. Three months later the war ended but the British troops in Archangel were told to fight on.

Sir Edmund's bitter account of the campaign in the Encyclopedia Britannica describes the "demoralizing effect upon all ranks" when the troops he commanded learned that the Germans no longer were the enemy and that the Bolsheviks were the new adversary.

"The allied troops were never again quite clear as to the reasons for the continuance of the fighting," he wrote.

The British troops were evacuated from Russia at the end of the summer of 1919. Sir Edmund, then 38, was promoted to major-general and sent to Ismid to command the British force in Anatolia, where the late Kemal Ataturk was defying the French and British armies and beginning construction of his "New Turkey."

Back in Britain in 1922, he was made commandant of the army staff college at Camberley in Surrey. For four years he trained officers for high grade army posts. Experts said his methods made a deep impression on British military thought.

One of the British army's best linguists, Sir Edmund is a qualified interpreter in seven languages, is said to have a broad knowledge of 20. Among those he speaks well are French, German, Dutch, Norwegian, Russian, Magyar, Hindustani, Persian, Arabic and Flemish.

Sir Edmund long has been an almost legendary figure in the British army. Most soldiers know his great hulking figure, broad-jawed face with close cropped mustache, his thinning iron-grey hair and steely eyes.

"Your girl called up and said she wouldn't be able to see you to-day."

"Well, that's a wait off my mind."

The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. STRANGE

Director "Crop Testing Plan"

As I am writing this column the Prime Minister of Great Britain warns that we are rapidly approaching a state of war.

If war actually does come, Canada no doubt will immediately be involved. In this good country we have living among us hundreds of thousands of families, men, women and children who have found here a peaceful living and happy homes, but who came, and some quite recently, from countries with which Canada may soon be at war. In times of war, in any country, the position of such people is always exceedingly difficult, but they themselves can make the situation much easier if they would be careful to refrain from discussing any political matters that might tend to cause resentment against them.

It will of course, be merely an act of simple human decency and kindness for the rest of us to do our best to make the lot of these good Canadians of foreign extraction as easy as possible, by saying nothing, and by committing no action that will tend to embarrass them or to make their existence any harder than need be; for when the war is over we shall all want to live once again, we hope, with each other as good neighbors—in short, as Canadians.

Following factors have tended to raise prices: Nervous European political situation -- Continued wet weather detrimental to wheat, barley and oats -- Dry weather reduces Italian corn crop, necessitating imports -- Greece purchases Hungarian wheat -- Much lodged wheat in Germany -- British Government buying large quantities Canadian wheat.

Following factors have tended to lower prices: Continued pressure of Argentine wheat for shipment -- Abundant corn supplies in U.S.A. -- Increased U.S.A. flour export subsidy rates -- Offers of new corn from South Africa increase -- U.S.A. Department of Agriculture increases wheat estimate from 717 to 731 million -- Grain sorghums show improvement in Great Plains states.

Test Pilot Is Aviation Thriller

"Test Pilot" is a gripping, thrilling, dramatic story of men who risk their lives daily in the interest of aviation. While it has a background of the most thrilling flying ever shown on the screen, it is essentially the love story of a reckless, courageous death-defying sky-hopper who blasts his way through life while clinging precariously to it, taking life as it comes.

"Test Pilot" will bring aviation thrills to the local screen which have never before been photographed, including the terminal velocity dive, considered the most dangerous feat in aviation. This picture which is absolutely authentic in every detail will be shown at the Didsbury Opera House this weekend.

ARE Taxes Lower?

Premier Aberhart, when speaking at Didsbury, made the definite statement that taxes had not been increased, but any farmer examining his tax notice will find that the Provincial Social Service Tax which took the place of the Supplementary Revenue Tax, was increased 50 per cent, the former being 3 mills, while the latter was only 2 mills.

In 1938 the Westerdale Municipality Social Service Tax at 3 mills amounts to $7,457.00, whereas the tax on the 2-mill basis would have been $4,970.00.

In the Mountain View Municipality the Social Service Tax levied in 1938 amounted to $10,284.00, but if the old 2-mill rate had applied it would have amounted to $6,853.00.

It will be seen that these two municipalities are being levied $5,918 more than they would have been under the old 2-mill rate.

We figure this an increase in taxation—and remember, a similar increase in taxation has occurred in every municipality in the province.

In the same speech the Premier stated that under the Larger School Division the cost of running the schools was lower than it had been under the old system of individual school districts. He also claimed that if certain taxpayers' taxes were higher, it was on account of an inequitable assessment.

However, under the new order, the school taxes in this district have, on the whole, taken a decided advance.

In Mountain View Municipality in 1938 the total school tax levied was $25,016.36, while in 1939 the total amount levied is $30,314.30—an increase of $5,307.94, or over 21 per cent.

In Westerdale Municipality $18,767.41 was levied for school purposes in 1938, while in 1939 $23,102.85 has been levied, an increase of $4,335.44, or over 23 per cent.

Agricultural Report.

Compiled by Dept. of Agriculture,
Edmonton, Alberta, for Period
Ending August 21st

A more optimistic note is apparent in the reports from crop correspondents this week. Over most of the province high temperatures have moderated and cooler weather has given crops a chance to mature normally. In some areas of the south where damage from heat was expected to be severe, subsequent yields have been higher than expected, but grades are showing the effect of high temperatures.

Coarse grains being later than wheat, are generally inferior, but some good crops of oats especially in the Peace River section area will be harvested.

Frost or near-frost has been reported at a number of points but as far as can be determined damage, if any, has been limited to gardens. Pastures throughout the province would benefit greatly from general rains, but the heavy growth produced in June is providing ample feed for stock. Haying has been completed and yields are generally good.

Live stock continues to make good progress but a period of poor foraging may occur unless rain is obtained soon. The dairy industry reflects the deterioration of pasture conditions to a limited extent. Conditions in the poultry industry are satisfactory.

Wheat cutting is general over practically all of the province, except through the central area and eastward to Drumheller where it has just started. Yields of wheat already threshed or combined exceed previous estimated in southern districts, but grades are definitely low and in some cases are no expected to average above 4 for a whole Census Division.

The extreme heat and drought have caused general deterioration in coarse grains and yields of these crops will probably be low. Cutting of coarse grains is well under way in practically all districts. Some crops are being cut for feed. Yields of hay, both cultivated and wild, have been fairly satisfactory. Good general rains would be most welcome to provide moisture for the fall growth of forage.

Items of Interest.

An optimistic London seaside-bound motorist was cheered on his way for his big-lettered proclamation affixed to his car: "Half a Mo' Hitler! Let's Have Our Holidays First."

Belief that police have unearthed what appears to be a widespread naturalization racket is entertained in Edmonton, where Mr. Justice Tweedie appeared as a witness against a defendant charged with perjury. It is said that nearly fifty persons will be charged with various offenses concerned with the illegal obtaining of naturalization papers. A tag is suspected.

Tomson's new dog chamber is proving to be a real asset in doing away with dogs that have doomed to die. Carl Sick, Innisfail town policeman, found it necessary to find some way to put an end to dogs that were either license-shy or were a definite nuisance to their owners. He constructed a small portable trunk affair with a door and a hose attachment. The hose is attached to the exhaust of a car and the engine is started. Three minutes does the trick painlessly, but to make very certain, five minutes is usually allowed. To date 14 canines have passed through the chamber.

Elimination of sleeping sickness in horses of the province by means of vaccine treatment has caused satisfaction among Department of Agriculture officials, who foresaw in early treatment the best safeguard against repetition of the epidemic which decimated Alberta's horse population last year. After a tour of Northern Alberta during which he attended 17 colt shows, Hardy E. Slater, secretary of the Alberta Percheron Club, said horses had not looked better in years.

Burnside Notes

NOTICE

To Relatives of Persons on the Assessment Roll and to Tenants

Notice is hereby given that during the months of September and October applications may be made under the provision of Section 188 of the Town and Village Act for inclusion in the Voters' List of the Town of Didsbury by the following persons, namely:

Tenants who have rented an assessed parcel for a period of twelve months immediately preceding the last day of August of this year, and tenants who have for said period rented a self contained apartment or residence on an assessed parcel upon which there are two or more self contained apartments or residences.

The wife, husband, father and mother, and every son and daughter of any person whose name appears upon the Assessment Roll who are entitled to be placed upon the said list, and the wife, husband, father and mother, and every son and daughter of tenants as aforesaid who have applied to be included in the said list:

(a) If such wife, husband, father, mother, son or daughter is either resident within the town or assists such person in the business in respect of which he or she is taxable.

(b) If he or she is of the full age of twenty-one years.

(c) If his or her name does not already appear on the Assessment Roll.

THE CANADIAN WHEAT BOARD
5,000 Bushel Limit on Deliveries of 1939 Wheat

REGULATIONS

1. No person shall sell to the Board wheat which was not grown on the farm or farms which such person owns or operates, or to the product of which such person is otherwise entitled.

2. Every person who sells wheat to the Board in breach of the foregoing regulation shall be guilty of an offence and punishable on summary conviction by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars or by imprisonment for a period not exceeding one month.

PROVISIONS FOR ESTABLISHING THE SYSTEM OF DEALING IN WHEAT UNDER THE CANADIAN WHEAT BOARD ACT FOR THE CROP YEAR 1939-40, MORE PARTICULARLY WITH REFERENCE TO THE 5,000 BUSHEL LIMIT.

RULES AND INSTRUCTIONS

The Canadian Wheat Board will buy 1939 wheat during the crop year 1939-40 on the following basis:

1. The sale of 5,000 bushels at the fixed price is the limit of benefit which any grower may derive from the Canadian Wheat Board. In addition to buying from the grower, the Board may of course buy wheat from landlords, vendors, mortgagees, or others entitled by contract or operation of law to wheat grown by someone else. If any person from whom the Board is entitled to buy wheat sells less than 5,000 bushels of wheat to the Board, wheat grown on the same farm or group of farms operated as a unit may be purchased by the Board from any other person from whom the Board is entitled to purchase wheat, but the Board will not buy more than 5,000 bushels of wheat grown on any one farm or group of farms operated as a unit. Subject to such limitation the Board may buy more than 5,000 bushels from a landlord, vendor, mortgagee or other person so entitled.

ILLUSTRATION A—The Board may purchase from each grower-producer not more than 5,000 bushels of wheat grown by him in the crop year.

ILLUSTRATION B—Where a grower-producer sells 5,000 bushels of wheat grown on one farm or group of farms operated as a unit, the Board will not buy from any landlord, vendor, mortgagee or other person entitled as aforesaid any further wheat produced on such farm or group of farms.

ILLUSTRATION C—Where there is a mortgage on the farm and the owner-grower sells to the Board 3,000 bushels of wheat grown on that farm, then the mortgagee can sell to the Board only 2,000 bushels of wheat grown on that farm.

ILLUSTRATION D—Where in such circumstances there is a landlord or a vendor, as well as a mortgage, the total sales of the landlord or vendor and mortgagee can only be 2,000 bushels.

ILLUSTRATION E—Where a mortgagee receives 3,000 bushels of wheat grown on each of two farms, and in each case the owner-grower sells 3,000 bushels or less to the Board, the Board may buy the whole 20,000 bushels from such mortgagee.

ILLUSTRATION F—Where land is leased, the tenant-grower and the landlord will be treated in the same manner, respectively, as the owner-grower and mortgagee in the above illustrations.

ILLUSTRATION G—Employees and dependents are not grower-producers; and they cannot sell wheat to the Board themselves or through anybody else, unless a grower hires employees by a contract based on crop shares instead of money wages, in which case grower and employee respectively will be treated in the same manner as owner-grower and mortgagee in illustrations above.

ILLUSTRATION H—If two farmers actually farm in partnership and each is entitled to a share of the crop and neither is a dependent or employee of the other, each is a producer of his share of the crop and will be treated in the same manner as a grower-producer in illustrations above.

2. Difficult cases may arise in applying the 5,000 bushel limit on purchases of wheat in certain cases, such as where one man owns a number of farms which are operated by relatives or dependents, or where a number of persons operate farms under an arrangement such that the wheat they grow is sold by a community organization. In such cases the Board will have to exercise discretion on the light of the general principles illustrated above.

Questions have been raised regarding the right of an owner-grower and mortgagee under item (c) in clause 1 of the Rules and Instructions above. This, of course, is merely an illustration like all the others and the amounts mentioned are by no means binding in individual cases.

Regarding priority between themselves, of grower, landlord, vendor, mortgagee and other persons entitled to wheat, the Board cannot concern itself with the rights of these various parties between themselves. They must make their own arrangements. No doubt in some instances at any rate the relationship will be governed by the terms of the lease, mortgage or other agreement between them.

Champion In His Class

Man Can Still Peel Bag Of Potatoes In One Hour

A one-time champion potato-peeler of the Cunard Line arrived in Durban recently aboard the Mahia.

He was Mr. J. J. Hickman, now chief cook of the Mahia. In seven years he peeled more than 3,000,000 potatoes for passengers travelling between London and Montreal. In those days potato-peeling was a full-time job. Five men were required to handle the 200 bags which the 1140 passengers consumed during the voyage.

Mr. Hickman said he never tired of the work. Even now his idea of a rest was to peel a bag of potatoes which took him about an hour. There was an aspect of this work which appealed to him. It was possible to sit down and gossip at the same time.

The best potato-peelers, he thought, came from Lancashire. It took about 4½ months to make a man proficient at the work—South African News Bulletin.

What an endearing young dress this is! Its fluid, graceful lines make you all willowy curves. Anne Adams has planned Pattern 4142 for quick, easy sewing. Your needle will fly over the straight princess seams, especially with the illustrated sewing instructions to explain the how and where. You can make the centre front and back panels on the bias for a novel effect. You'll find it fun to make the scallops and just see how new and pretty they look! They form the edge of the young square neck and the wing-like openings of the sleeve. Use perky bows here and there, and lace or rick-rack trim to heighten the femininity of this style.

Pattern 4142 is available in junior and misses' sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18; bust sizes 28, 30, 32, 34 and 36. Size 14 takes 3½ yards 39 inch fabric and 5¼ yards lace.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send order to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg.

SELECTED RECIPES

CHICKEN PIE

(Shredded Wheat Crust)

About 3 cups finely crumbled Shredded Wheat Biscuits (4-5 biscuits).

Two medium-size stewing chickens, boiling water to cover.

- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon pepper
- 1 peeled small onion, sliced
- 1 small piece bay leaf (if desired)
- Flour to thicken
- 1 cup cooked or canned peas
- 1 cup cooked or canned limas
- ½ cup melted butter

Order chickens cut up as for fricassee. Add the boiling water, salt, pepper, onion and bay leaf; cover and simmer gently until tender, replenishing water if necessary. Strain the stock and thicken it with flour mixed to pouring consistency with cold water. Remove the meat from the bony pieces. Arrange a thin layer of the Shredded Wheat crumbs in a greased baking dish. Arrange the chicken, both the whole pieces and that removed from the bones, in alternate layers with the vegetables. Fill up the dish to within half an inch of the top with the thickened stock. Mix the remaining crumbs with the melted butter and spread in a thin layer over the top of the chicken and vegetables. Bake in a hot oven of 400 degrees F. for 30 minutes or until bubbling hot and delicately browned. Serves 8.

Serve with a large green salad and a fruit or frozen dessert.

SWANS DOWN WAFFLES

- 2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
  - 2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
  - ½ teaspoon salt
  - 3 egg yolks, well beaten
  - 1 cup milk
  - 4 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening
  - 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Combine egg yolks, milk and butter, add to flour, beating until smooth. Fold in egg whites. Bake in hot waffle iron. Makes four 4-section waffles.

The United States was England's best source of supply for principal products in 1937.

Neglected By Treasure Hunters

Bed Of Lake Erie Holds Much Wealth In Lost Ships

Rich treasures—not gold doubloons, but everything from cash to whisky and locomotives—lie on the bottom of Lake Erie, a survey of records at Lorain, Ohio, shows.

The wrecks of ships lie scattered over the bottom of the shallowest of the Great Lakes whose average depth is less than 100 feet—but are neglected by treasure hunters who go instead to tropical islands to search for legendary pirates' gold.

Valuable cargoes have gone down on the ships which travel the inland seas.

One of the better-known lake tragedies was that of the ship Erie, commanded by Capt. T. J. Titus.

Sailing from Buffalo for Chicago on the afternoon of Aug. 9, 1841, an explosion rocked her deck as she was about 38 miles out.

Flames spread throughout the rigging of the old sailing ship. There was a panic and most aboard were drowned or burned to death.

Scores of immigrants aboard died, and their life savings—amounting to approximately $18,000—sank with the charred ship in but 70 feet of water.

No one thought of the fortune until 1855, when an enterprising group from Buffalo found the hull of the ship, towed it to shallow water and recovered the wealth, which was mostly in foreign coins.

Not all the treasures have been recovered.

The hulk of the Dean Richmond still lies between Dunkirk, N.Y., and Erie, Pa.

All hands were lost when the Richmond sank, but $50,000 worth of pig zinc lies in her waterlogged hold.

The Young Sion sank during the last century with a valuable cargo of railroad iron, near Walnut Creek, Off Point Pelee, Ont., lies the Kent with a money cargo and somewhere between Cleveland and Detroit the Clarion is sunk with a cargo of locomotives.

Finders of the steamer Atlantic, which went down off Long Point in Lake Erie with a loss of 300 lives, were made richer by $30,000.

A Science In Itself

Art Of Government Not Learned Without Work And Experience

Hon. Eric Cross, Ontario Minister of Municipal Affairs, says government is a science in itself. It is not to be learned in business alone. Businessmen have often failed to show sapacity for government. Politics is the art of government and it is not learned over-night; it is acquired by study and experience, and it is not by accident that the men who have led the nation—and will continue to lead it—have spent long and arduous years in Parliament and public life learning and practising the art of government before they were called to leadership. All who seek to govern in a democracy must be prepared to undergo the drudgery of apprenticeship.

Calls Himself Book Pedlar

American Has Been Handling Valuable Volumes For 50 Years

A recent visitor in Old London was 77-year-old Gabriel Wells, American "book pedlar", as he modestly calls himself. He has been buying and selling valuable volumes for 50 years. He took with him a famous manuscript commonly called the Olive Branch Petition. It is a proposal submitted to the British King and signed by all American leaders, who later signed the Declaration of Independence. Mr. Wells bought this for $57,000 some time ago. He also owns many manuscripts by Barrie, Galsworthy, Arnold Bennett and Bernard Shaw.

Must Be Good Guesser

Woman Has Seldom Made Mistake In Judging The Weather

For 22 summers Mrs. Charles S. Guggenheimer has been a "weather worrier". Hers is the final say-so whether the stadium concerts at New York should be held outdoors or inside.

She believes she must be "in tune with the weather gods," for seldom has she erred in judging the weather. It makes quite a difference if a storm blows up—the outdoor arena seats 20,000 persons but there is only room for 3,000 inside.

ORANGE JUICE AND VITAMIN C

So many persons make a practice of squeezing oranges at night, putting the juice in a lightly covered glass and leaving it in the refrigerator for use at breakfast, that the question has often been raised as to whether such juice loses its vitamin content.

Orange juice is one of the best sources of Vitamin C and this vitamin is so important to health that those who like to prepare it the evening before using it, will be interested to know that early reports that this practice meant a loss appear to be disproved by more recent research.

In an investigation of the Vitamin C content of orange juice performed this year in the laboratories of the Bureau of Home Economics of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, it was found that there was no appreciable loss of ascorbic acid (Vitamin C) in orange juice stored for 24 hours in loosely covered glass jars in a refrigerator at safe refrigeration temperatures of 40 to 50 degrees.

It is clear, therefore, that fresh orange juice loses little Vitamin C potency on standing in the refrigerator if the juice is kept in a covered container to avoid access of air.

It is also reported that there was no difference in the results of the investigation mentioned when the juice was strained through cheese cloth or through a wire sieve.

A loud yawn from the upper bunk announced the awakening of the giant and soon the room was filled with odors of hot bannocks, frying caribou steak and tea.

During the following days, while the boys and dog were regaining their lost weight and strength and the crust stiffened under the March sun, Alan talked much with McCord. But his direct questions received evasive answers. The mystery of the giant's presence on the Talking River was still unsolved in the minds of the boys. The explanation that he was there to trade with the Indians did not satisfy them.

Nevertheless, in the intimacy of the life together, Alan and Noel gradually surrendered to the magnetism of the man who had saved them from a wilderness death. They were convinced that behind that bulk and power lay the mettle of a man.

Soon Heather McCord was driving Rough over the crusty river ice hitched to her father's small trapping toboggan. Never before had the Unvaga shown interest in anyone except the man he worshipped. But by some secret magic, some occult charm of personality, the girl had reached the heart of the dog.

One day as Alan followed rabbit snares set in the thick willows of the shore reaches above the camp, he heard Heather and Rough skimming over the wind-brushed river ice, the laughter of the girl mingling with the wild yelping of the dog. Finishing his round of the snares, he came out to the shore a mile above the camp and looked up and down stream. The river was deserted. Thinking that they had gone on upstream, he walked to a bend in the shore. But on the sweep of white river ice before him there was no sled. Then his heart suddenly slowed as he noticed, a quarter of a mile above, near the shore, black objects, low on the ice.

Dropping the rabbits he carried, Alan ran like a caribou hunted by timber wolves.

"If they can only hold on—only hold on!" he prayed, leaping over the wind-scoured crust of the river.

As he approached the two struggling in the suck of the strong current, Alan saw that the girl was holding herself firmly by her arms on strong ice but that the husky was breaking down the ice-edge, churning and clawing with his powerful forelegs to hold himself up against the drag of the sled beneath him.

"Hold on! Hold on, Rough!" he cried, desperate with fear.

Clinging to the ice edge, the white-faced girl gasped: "Get Rough! The sled's pulling him under! I'm—all right!"

The spread paws of the frantic dog were slowly slipping on the clawed ice—slipping toward the edge.

"Hold on, Roughy!" she cried.

With a last desperate lunge of his powerful fore legs the despairing dog lifted his head and shoulders above the water. The deep throat sent a farewell whine to the master who was coming too late. Slowly, like an anchor, the drag of the sled drew the slipping nails to the edge of the ice and the heroic dog sank beneath the surface.

There was a heavy splash as Alan Cameron threw himself into the water. Hooking one arm on the ice edge, he reached under water and gripped a trace of the dog who thrashed wildly against the drag of the sled to gain the surface. With a wrench of his powerful arm and shoulder Alan drew the struggling Rough up to the ice edge. Aided by Alan's lift on the trace, the dog hooked his forelegs again on the ice. Alan whipped his skinning knife from its sheath and slashed both traces. The great husky drew himself out of the water, turned and clamping his teeth on the capote of his master, slowly drew him out on the ice.

"Oh, you've saved him—you've saved him!"

With a spring the dog reached the rim of the firm ice where Heather clung with all the strength of her young arms, and seized a sleeve of her duffel capote while the dripping Alan gripped her hand and man and dog drew the half-frozen girl from the water.

"Are you all right?" he cried, as Heather, half-delirious, hugged the wildly yelping Rough. "Quick now! We'll wring some of the water out of your clothes! They'll freeze solid. We've got to strike for camp."

Shivering like a man with the ague, Alan wrung what water he could from her clothes.

"We've lost the sled," she said ruefully.

"We can make another in a day or two! Come on now! No time to talk! Run!" commanded Alan, seizing Heather's arm, while she, half-crying, half-laughing, attempted to explain how she had forgotten her father's warning and had driven Rough into the treacherous ice of the rapids.

Three ice-incrusted figures reached the warm camp to send John McCord, when he returned, into a tirade on the folly of headstrong girls with short memories. Later Alan and Heather, swathed in blankets, drying out before the fire, heard him say:

"What would there be left for me with Heather, you and Rough out there under that ice?"

CHAPTER III.

March, the southern Montagnais "Moon of the Crust on the Snow," was drawing to an end. Three weeks of nourishing food had wrought miracles in the two famished boys and the team-stiff-legged husky who had drifted in out of the jaws of the white death to the cabin of John McCord.

But now there was no time to waste, if the boys were to escape being caught on their way to Fort George by the spring break-up, when the crust goes suddenly soft before the advancing sun and water floods the river ice.

Intriguing Recipe For Butterscotch Pudding

(Note: When well chilled, this dessert may be unmoulded.)

Combine 4½ tablespoons Durham Corn Starch very thoroughly with 1¼ cups brown sugar (not packed) and ¾ teaspoon salt. Slowly stir in 3 cups hot milk; return to double boiler and stir and cook until mixture thickens. Cover and cook, with occasional stirring, until no raw flavor remains. Remove from heat and add 1 tablespoon butter and ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Cool slightly and turn into wet moulds or dessert glasses. (Dessert glasses may be prepared by putting spoonfuls of vanilla-flavored Bee Hive Golden Corn Syrup in the bottom of each.) Serve cold. Delicious with chopped nuts (toasted when suitable), dates or coconut added. May be served with cream, plain or whipped. Six to seven servings. D10

Use level standard measurements.

The afternoon before Alan planned to start for the coast, he and McCord, their snowshoes slung from their backs, were returning from a round of the trap-lines in the timber of the river valley. Suddenly, swinging round on the hooded figure of Alan, who walked beside his dog, McCord exploded, almost fiercely:

"I want you to bring back some real dogs—then winter with me!"

"Winter with you?" The pulse of the youth leaped.

"I've watched you alone and with your dog. I've seen you handle an axe and a rifle. I've listened to your talk. I haven't lived forty years for nothing. You're young, but you're the man I looked for and couldn't find—down in Ontario and at Moose, and Rupert House."

"But Ungava dogs are hard to get," objected Alan. "There are few for sale. The Huskies want them for themselves."

With a quick movement McCord slipped his hand from the rabbit-skin mitten, slung by a thong from his neck, and wiped the ice formed by his breath from his short, blond beard.

"You're straight as a spruce—or I'm no judge of a race," he said.

"I'm going to trust you, but how about Noel? He's Indian. Can you keep his mouth shut—if they try to learn something?"

"Noel would die for me," answered Alan, wondering what was coming. "He will not talk."

"You'll get the dogs, then?"

"Why not come to the coast and get them, yourself?"

"I don't want it known at Fort George where I am going to locate to trade with the Indians. That's why I came in by way of Rupert House—to throw them off the scent—to lose myself. Remember you've never seen me. Can Noel keep that locked in his throat?"

Suddenly across Alan's brain there flashed a suspicion. Could this man, facing him here on the river ice, be wanted down in the provinces for crime?

"You saved our lives," was Alan's answer. "They'll never know at Fort George that we met you."

"I believe you, boy," McCord laid his hand on the other's shoulder. "But will you go up the coast for the dogs?"

Alan hesitated. There was Bertha! What would she say? He was saying—saying in the hope that some day, Bertha—But the money that McCord would pay him might bring that day nearer.

"Winter with you?"

"Huskies you want?" muttered the boy, his straight gaze meeting the look in the other's tense face. His heart beat with pride at what he had just heard. McCord, who had come from a world of many men, far south in the cities, had rated him high among them. Then, in a flash came the vision of the face of the girl that had accompanied his dreams through the winter—the girl to whom he had bidden good-by that day when hope had died and they were crawling with the last of their strength across the tundra to the valley of the Talking River. What would Bertha say if he spent the early summer on the north coast seeking dogs for John McCord? Would she believe that he still cared for her if he went north at once on his return to Fort George?

"Yes, I want a team like Rough. I'll get only scrubs from East Main if I get them at all."

"CANADA CALLING" IN BRITAIN

Typical of scenes witnessed at cinemas in some of the principal cities in Britain these days is the above photograph, showing English schoolboys, trooping into a theatre at Reading, England, to see a special screening of films provided by the Dominion Government. One of the many activities of the "Canada Calling" campaign, the films depict farms, fishing and industrial scenes which emphasize the importance of Canada as the food basket for the United Kingdom. The campaign, which covers the major population centres in Britain, is being conducted by the Dominion Government's Department of Trade and Commerce, regarded as one of the most carefully planned efforts ever launched by a British Dominion, this trade crusade also embraces a series of localized drives and extensive newspaper advertising and marketing operations. In addition, it is supplemented by lectures to schools, women's clubs, domestic science classes and other organizations, and has enlisted the support of thousands of merchants who are giving special displays of Canadian products.
